Doron Clark

Clark has worked at Target headquarters for nine years as a job skills developer and also worked at the Minnesota Senate for four years. He has been Windom Park Citizens in Action president for four and a half years, a job which he said has "resulted in successes like building the first LEED certified home in Northeast and planting and preserving hundreds of trees." He worked on school board member Jill Davis' campaign, has been a Big Brother/Big Sisters Program mentor for eight years, and is a member of Grace Church in Northeast. He said his work experience has given him management and policy skills that will apply to city governance.

Clark said, "Northeast needs strong responsive leadership in all parts of our city government. By listening and interacting directly with Northeasters over the years, I have identified issues and goals for every neighborhood in our ward. I received early support from local unions, advocacy groups and local neighborhood leaders because they believe in my efforts to build local civic participation. My campaign has had over 40 events, including meeting with seniors, students, Somali leaders and small business owners." Clark said he intends to support the DFL-endorsed candidate.
